

Leadership and Management

Leadership and management are two notions that are often used interchangeably. However, these words actually describe two different concepts. Oscar Henry will discuss these differences and explain some practical applications in a small business.

This challenging and focussed review will be undertaken by experienced consultants with a track record of interacting with a broad spectrum of companies, facing many different issues. These sessions are undertaken on a one to one basis with the senior executive of the business. The time allocated can be flexed to address particular areas of concern or opportunity.

Course Outline

1	Review of Company Vision as it exists with Company Owners/Executive and discuss how to generate a clear Strategy for the business into the future.	½ Day
2	How to review of progress towards this Vision/Strategy by assessing Company performance	½ Day
3	How to analyse the effectiveness of the current Business Processes (Internal and External)	½ Day
4	Gain an understanding of how to develop Milestone Actions and Key Performance Indicators for Improving Company Performance through Defined Leadership and Management Activity and how this is communicated effectively within the Organisation	1 Day
